Abstract:

Vietnam – A Land That Tells Stories Through Legends:

In the North, we have Ha Long Bay – where the Mother Dragon descended, breathing pearls to form thousands of limestone islands protecting our land. It is not just a UNESCO heritage site – it is the soul of a brave nation.

In the capital, you will hear the legend of Sword Lake, where Emperor Le Loi returned the sacred sword to the Golden Turtle – a symbol of virtue, justice, and Vietnamese humility.

“A nation’s culture resides in the hearts and in the soul of its people.” – Mahatma Gandhi

In Vietnam, culture breathes in every moment. Every festival, every custom, every dish is a gateway to the soul of our people.

Vietnam – A Journey of Returning to Yourself

“Travel is not reward for working. It’s education for living.” – Anthony Bourdain

When international visitors come to Vietnam, they don’t just check-in at scenic spots – they check-in with their own essence.

During Tet (Lunar New Year), amidst a sea of red that blankets every street, we don’t wish each other wealth – we wish for peace, reunion, and safe return.

And when they taste a steaming bowl of pho, they’ll realize we cook with more than ingredients – we cook with memory, history, and national pride.

Vietnam – A Discovery to Awaken the Soul

“Vietnam is a symphony between heaven and earth. Each journey is a chapter that stirs your heart.” – Rosa

You’ll feel depth in Hue, romance in Hoi An, vibrance in Saigon, and majestic wilderness in Nam Cat Tien.

Vietnam cannot be framed into a single image – it is a multi-dimensional identity, where every traveler finds a piece of themselves.
