

Light Smart Factories: Introducing Peruvian SMES to the I4.0

José Manuel Cárdenas Medina

Universidad Peruana de Ciencias Aplicadas, UPC, Lima, Perú

Gaby Lizeth Vito Aguilar

Universidad Nacional de San Agustín de Arequipa, UNSA, Arequipa, Perú

Ricardo José Aguilar Alvis

Universidad Nacional de San Agustín de Arequipa, UNSA, Arequipa, Perú

Andrea Sheryna Polanco Chambi

Universidad Nacional de San Agustín de Arequipa, UNSA, Arequipa, Perú

Abstract

The fourth industrial revolution has generated some changes and concerns to the big industries, which means that they need to consider investing a lot of money in order to introduce themselves to the I4.0. However, this is not the concern for little entrepreneurs that could benefit from the leanness practices and at low cost technology. The paper reviews how these little entrepreneurs can take advantage of the I4.0 approach through a “light smart factory” approach.

