

Designing Intelligence Tests with Rule-Based Item Generation

Heinz Holling

University of Munster, Germany

Abstract:

In this presentation I will introduce the principles of online rule-based testing. After a short introduction whether rule-based testing is really a new topic, automatic item generators for rule-based testing of different intelligence dimensions will be shown. Finally, the advantages of such tests are explained. A short summary concludes this presentation.